'PRIORITY' PUTS MARRIED MEN NEARER ARMY

War Workers, Physically Unfit Seen as Only Deferments In 20-45 Age Group.

1-A CLASS DEPLETING

Richland Boards Say Heavy Dips in 3-A Ranks Loom After August.

Married men of Richland county appeared today to be closer to army induction under the "priority" system established by the new dependency - allotment act than they were under former selective service regulations.

Now that the smoke of congressional debate on the new draft regulations has cleared away, Ohio's selective service administrators at Columbus believe that virtually every man from 20 to 45 years of age in the state face army service unless he can claim deferment as a vital war worker, or is disqualified for physical or moral reasons.

Close examination and "reading between the lines" of the new regulations reveals that they:

1. Strike out deferment claims based on financial responsibility to dependents.

2. Set up a priority system for induction of men with dependents, based on the type and extent of family relationships.

3. Leave physical disability and moral turpitude as virtually the only bars to induction, except for those with class 2 deferments because of vital war occupations.

4. Withhold payment of dependency allotments to families of men in service until sometime after Nov. (which is, incidentally, right around election times).

"A man with two children and a big mortgage on his house faces induction before a millionaire with three children," one selective service agent said, commenting on the new deferment categories which take men in this order:

First, those without dependents or family, or who acquired them after Dec. 8, 1941; second, those with dependents other than wife or children; third, those living with wives, but with no children; lastly, those with wives and children, or children only.

In none of these classes is fi-

Predict German Saboteurs Face Speedy Hearing

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Military authorities predicted today that the trial of the eight German saboteurs starting in Washington Wednesday will last less than a week.

Captured by the FBI after they were landed on American shores from German submarines, the Nazis will be brought before a seven-man military commission, with the threat of the gallows or a firing squad facing them.

All of them, according to the FBI, have confessed that they had planned to blow up American aluminum plants and key railroad and power works in an effort to halt American plane production.

Since the saboteurs have admitted their guilt in the confessions, the military court is expected to complete the testimony of the case in three or four days, with its decision to be announced almost immediately.

GLIDER SCHOOL OPENS

COLUMBUS—(INS)—One of the army's three schools for training its "commandos of the air," or glider pilots, opens today at the Lockbourne air base south of Columbus, the army announced.

Java Tragedy: Three Planes Vs. 43 Ships

Dive Bomber Pilots Tell of Futile Effort to Stem Invasion.

(By International News Service)

MELBOURNE—The story of a gallant but vain attempt by three Allied dive-bombers to sink a Japanese invasion fleet of 43 transports in the Java sea, was told today to Norman Stockton, the Melbourne Herald war correspondent, by the pilots concerned—Captains Harry Galusha and Julius Summers, and Lieut. J. W. Ferguson —at a base somewhere in Australia.

They piloted the three last dive-bombers of a squadron which had constantly harried the Japanese since the invasion armada set out for the Netherlands East Indies. They dived through a hail of ack-ack and loosed their bombs. Each sank a transport laden with troops. On both the outward and inward flights the pilots flew over Allied and Japanese warships engaged in battle.

"We knew four days before the battle that a big Japanese invasion fleet was on its way to Java," Galusha said.

"The Allied air force had been practically wiped out. In addition to a flying fortress, only three of our dive-bombers and eleven fighters were left. The Dutch air force, already sadly depleted, was operating further south so we decided to take out our three dive bombers in a last desperate throw at the Japanese.

"Our orders were to ignore the Japanese warships and concentrate on the transports about six miles north of Sourabaya. We took three bombs on each plane and set out.

"Soon after passing the coast we flew over an Allied fleet of 11 ships, including the Australian cruiser Perth and the American cruiser Houston. They steamed westward parallel with the Japanese fleet of 16 ships, all heavier.

"The two fleets were about four miles apart exchanging broadsides. I noticed two of our ships afire and four Japanese, including two heavy cruisers (one may have been a battleship) were burning. Two others had fallen out of line, smoking badly. Steaming parallel with the two lines of fighting warships was another fleet of Japanese warships—three battle cruisers, fourteen cruisers and destroyers. They were about eight miles from the Allied fleet and were hurtling broadsides over the first Japanese line of warships. Our ships were outnumbered at least three-to-one.

"We couldn't wait to see the outcome of the battle, but continued northward and sighted the invasion fleet of transports steam-

FBI SUCCESS?

Agents Look Cheerful as They Question Refugees.

NEW YORK—(INS)— Indications that federal investigators questioning refugees aboard the Swedish liner Drottningholm had found what they were looking for came today as the number of persons still detained aboard the vessel was cut to 438.

Among ninety passengers to be allowed to leave the ship yesterday, C. Charles Devaux, Nice, France, hotelman, told reporters investigators were much more cheerful as they continued detailed questioning of refugees.

"After several hours," he said, "the investigators looked happy instead of grim. Apparently they had found what they were looking for."

DEATHS TAKE HOLIDAY DROP

Mansfield Area Has Only One Injury Accident; 21 Face Traffic Charges.

Violent death took a holiday on Mansfield streets and Richland county highways over the Fourth of July week-end with only six minor accidents and one traffic injury reported but 18 persons were killed in traffic accidents in other parts of the state.

The decrease in accidents in the Mansfield area was not due to the lack of traffic violators, however. Mansfield police and state highway patrolmen arrested 21 motorists for alleged violations, 12 of them speeding charges.

There were no Ohio fireworks deaths — fireworks for amateurs were banned this year. Rivers and lakes still claimed drowning victims, however, and at least four persons were shot to death. A professional fireworks expert,

CAP Parades Air Strength, Gets Rating Of 'Excellent'

The Civil Air Patrol for 10 north central Ohio counties paraded its aerial might at Municipal airport yesterday and received from the CAP State Commander George Stone of Columbus, a rating of "excellent."

Fifty-seven planes from the five squadrons in the 10 county group were reviewed and inspected by Stone and Congressman John Voorhees, aviation enthusiast and Ohio's first aeronautics director. It was one of the largest groups of planes ever to be lined up at the airport here.

After issuing the formal rating of "excellent," Stone told J. R. Harrington, CAP group commander and Mansfield airport manager, that the group's demonstration was "perfect—the best of any group I have seen in the state."

Approximately 200 guests were on hand for the early-bird breakfast, served at 7 a. m. by members of the Mansfield squadron. The other squadrons were from Marion, Wooster, Sandusky and Lorain.

Threatening weather kept down the size of the crowd, but sev-

PRICES PEGGED

OPA Puts Ceilings on Men's, Boys' Tailored Clothing.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Wholesalers' and manufacturers' prices for men's and boys' tailored clothing will be rolled back next Saturday—in some cases to levels existing as far back as July 1941 —to enable retailers to maintain their present ceilings.

The general price freezing order fixed all prices—wholesalers, manufacturers and retailers—at the March 1942, level. That caught many clothing retailers in a "squeeze," office of price administration officials explained. All clothing prices advanced during the fall of 1941 but retailers' prices rose more slowly.

OPA Administrator Leon Henderson announced the "roll back" last night and explained that it was necessary to enable retailers to keep men's clothing prices stable without deteriorating quality.

Earl M. "Lucky" Teter, one of this nation's outstanding automobile stunt drivers, who appeared in Ashland June 14 and again June 21 in thrill shows with his "Hell Drivers," is dead today, after doing his bit for army emergency relief in a thrill show at Indianapolis yesterday.

Teter, a native of Noblesville, Ind., who had lived at various times in Mansfield, Wooster and Ashland, was crushed to death when he failed to negotiate his famous "rocket car leap," as 12,000 spectators looked on at the Indiana state fairground last night.

The "leap" was the outstanding thrill of Lucky's two shows in Ashland, the last shows in which he appeared before staging his

U. S. POWER IN AIR BEGINS TO SLOW UP JAPS

Enemy, Pounded By Growing Aerial Strength, Turns To Night Raiding.

SUFFERS HEAVY BLOWS

New Army Group Stages Raids on Three Vital Points In Jap-Held China.

(By Associated Press)

American warplanes, flashing through the far Pacific skies in growing numbers, were declared today to be teaching the Japanese a cautious new respect in the battle of China and crippling any Japanese attempt to mass for an invasion of Australia.

Military dispatches said the Japanese, after bombing the helpless Chinese with impunity through five long years of war, were now switching to night aerial attacks in an effort to avoid the fierce resistance encountered from fliers of the new U. S. Army 23rd pursuit group in China.

In communique No. 1, United States headquarters announced that the newly established American air force, swinging quickly into action, inflicted heavy blows on Japanese airfields at Hankow, Namchang and Canton over a four-day period starting July 1.

"Communiques will be issued daily," the first war bulletin said, indicating the Americans' determination to press home unrelentless attacks against the Japanese invaders of China.

On the ground, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's armies were reported to have struck back at the Japanese captors of Ihwang, in Kiangsi province, retaking the town after the enemy had held it only 24 hours.

Chinese dispatches said the counter-attack had weakened Japanese efforts to trap large Chinese forces in central Kiangsi, and declared that the invaders were still unable to bridge the last 25-mile gap between their columns driving along the strategic Kiangsi-Chekiang railway.

On the eve of the sixth year since the bloody "China incident" broke out July 7, 1937, Gen. Chiang's armies appeared to be stiffening against the invaders, encouraged anew by Prime Minister Churchill's promise that Britain would give China "every material, moral and spiritual help" possible.

President Roosevelt also cabled Gen. Chiang "on this anniversary of the most despicable attack on you in all your long and noble history," and declared:

"Increasingly, your arms and

RUBBER CLASH

Norris and Nelson Argue About Use of Farm Commodities.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Sen. George W. Norris, Ind., Neb., in a heated exchange with War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson, today accused him of "doing nothing" to use agricultural commodities in an effort to increase the nation's rubber supply.

Norris made the charges before a senate agriculture subcommittee after Nelson had criticized and objected to legislation recommended by members which would establish a rubber supply agency, to have charge of producing a national stockpile of synthetic rubber made from farm and forest products.

"This is a very unfair and untrue statement," Nelson replied angrily to Norris' charge.

Germans Throw 'Everything' In Caucasus Drive

Launch Giant Wheeling Attack Against Oil Treasure Gateway; British In Egypt Force Rommel To Retreat For Second Straight Day.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Moscow radio said today that in past five days of "repelling the main Fascist onslaught" in the Kursk sector Russian tanks alone had destroyed four regiments of infantry, one artillery regiment and from 50 to 60 tanks. "Prisoners taken call the German losses gigantic," the broadcast added. CBS recorded it.

(By Associated Press)

British headquarters announced today that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's Egyptian armies had driven the Axis into retreat for the second successive day, while in the Russian campaign a sharp new crisis was indicated by a German claim that Nazi spearheads had crossed the River Don.

London military quarters said Adolf Hitler, now pressing a full-scale offensive, had thrown more than 1,000,000 troops into the Kursk drive in a mammoth wheeling operation to overrun the approaches to the Caucasus. Kursk, 130 miles north of Kharkov, was described by the Russians last week as the scene of the greatest tank battle of the year.

Advices reaching London said the Germans, using 1,500 first line aircraft and 10 divisions to spearhead the lunge eastward, had already forced the Russians back in the region of Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway.

The Vichy radio, often a Nazi propaganda outlet, asserted that Gen. Heinz Guderian's tank columns had cut the vital rail line.

Two Germans columns were said to be approaching Oronezh from the northwest and southwest, aiming at a junction west of the Don for an assault on the city of 212,000.

Meanwhile, the battle of Egypt took a brighter turn for Britain's imperial desert fighters.

A Berlin dispatch to a Swiss newspaper quoted German military circles as admitting that the British had succeeded in bringing up enough reserves to take the offensive.

A bulletin from imperial GHQ said British troops, pressing the initiative, attacked Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces in fierce all-day fighting in Egypt yesterday and "in a night attack drove the enemy from a strong point, inflicting heavy casualties."

In Russia, German dispatches described operations along the Don as a "big and broad offensive thrust" and the Berlin press proclaimed it "the beginning of the big push."

"Strong enemy groups encircled west of the Don face annihilation. Soviet attacks supported by tanks to relieve the pressure broke down," Hitler's headquarters said.

The Nazi command acknowledged, however, that "strong

STRIP ALEUTIAN ISLES FOR WAR

American Forces Evacuating All Natives, Getting Set For Battle With Japs.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(INS)— The navy announced today that on July 4 U. S. submarines torpedoed four Japanese destroyers in the Aleutian islands, sinking three and leaving the fourth "burning fiercely."

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Disclosure that more than 600 civilians have been evacuated from islands in the Aleutian archipelago indicated today that events may be shaping toward a series of major clashes between American and Japanese forces for possession of the north Pacific outposts.

While Nipponese occupation of Attu, Kiska and adjoining islands is not considered by military men a serious threat to the mainland, these sources admit that the enemy may attempt to use them as springboards for efforts to take other islands further east.

The fact that virtually all civilians have been transferred from the thinly populated Aleutians to the mainland may mean that U. S. military and naval leaders possibly are preparing for any eventuality in that area.

With the civilians out of the

CLAMPS DOWN

OPA Orders Tire Retailers To Submit Stock Inventories.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Tire bootlegging caused the Office of Price Administration to issue orders today requiring tire retailers to submit inventories of new, used, retreaded and recapped tires in stock as of June 30.

The order was sent to dealers in Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Indiana and Michigan. It requires that inventories be filed with local war price and rationing boards by July 15, and every three months thereafter.

CALL WITNESSES

Weekley Misconduct Charges To Be Heard Tomorrow.

Public hearing of misconduct charges against Willard S. Weekley, superintendent of schools at Butler, will be opened by the Butler board of education Tuesday in the common pleas courtroom starting at 9 a. m.

Seventeen witnesses are under subpoena by the complainants and approximately a dozen others will be called, according to the board's attorneys, James V. Will and A. S. Beach.

No witnesses have been subpoenaed by the defendant but several will be called later, according to Atty Glenn W. Marriott, who, with Atty. John C. Catlett, are representing the defendant.

The hearing by the five member school board will climax nearly six months of controversy in ouster proceedings against Weekley. Ivan Gower is president of the board which includes Walter E. Wareham, Rupert Roberts, Wade Forbes and K. R. Morgan.

PREDICT NAZI DEFEAT

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Germany's highly trained soldiers can and will be defeated, Col. Edwin W. Piburn, of the 10th armored division at Ft. Benning, Ga., told 20,000 spectators at a "parade for victory" at Ohio stadium.

'Mansfield Night' Set For July 17 At Akron War Show

"Mansfield night" will be observed on Friday, July 17, during the four-day presentation of the United States Army War Show in Akron, it was announced today.

The show will be given in the Akron Rubber bowl on four consecutive evenings, starting on July 16. The "Mansfield Night" performance wil start at 8:30 p. m.

The show, which has been attracting widespread attention during performances in a number of American cities, is presented by 1,800 soldiers from virtually every unit of the army. There are diving planes and tanks in action, infantry, cavalry, engineers and signal corps, machine guns, anti-aircraft guns and jeeps.

All receipts from the performances go to the Army Emergency Relief Fund.

The schedule is not complete, but designation of Mansfield night during the showing at Akron indicates this will be the closest city in this area where the performance will be given.

Representatives of the War Show will arrive in Mansfield in several days, it was announced in Akron, to establish ticket sale booths and provide additional details concerning the "Mansfield night" observance.

GERMANS USING MILLION TROOPS IN KURSK FIGHT

Seek To Crush Red Defenders of Caucasus Gate; British Keep Rommel Retreating.

forces" of Russians had launched their own offensive above Orel, 210 miles south of Moscow, and that the Red armies were only "partly repulsed" by counter-attacking Germans.

"Fighting is still in progress," the Nazi command said.

Significantly, Hitler's headquarters dismissed land operations in North Africa with a 10-word summary:

"In Egypt, battles for the El Alamein position are progressing."

German military quarters emphasized that the British had brought up "strong reserves" and that "El Alamein is composed of strong fortifications." The Germans officially claimed last week that they had broken through El Alamein's fortifications.

It was the fifth day of the critical "battle of the bottleneck" raging along the Mediterranean coast escarpment near El Alamein, 65 miles west of Alexandria.

British casualties were officially described as "slight."

Bolstered by strong land and aerial reinforcements, the British were reported previously to have thrown Rommel's armored columns back from a strategic bridge south of El Alemein.

In Cairo and Alexandria, optimism increased hourly over news of General Auchinleck's fresh triumphs over "Rommel, the fox."

Dispatches from the front said the invaders, spent by their swift 350-mile sweep across the desert from Tobruk, were beginning to suffer from lack of food and water as great numbers of RAF and U. S. warplanes bombed and machinegunned Rommel's vital lines of communication.

RAF pilots said they "undoubtedly destroyed hundreds of trucks" and damaged hundreds of others in an attack yesterday on a concentration of 3,500 Axis supply trucks west of El Alamein.

Front line advices said the British were rolling up their heavy artillery to pound Rommel's tanks at close range

While the Axis drive into Egypt appeared definitely checked, the news from Russia was grave.

Capping yesterday's announcement that Nazi vanguards had reached the Don river "on a broad front," Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted today that they had crossed the river at several places.

If true, this would mean a dangerous threat to the important Moscow-Rostov railway linking Russia's northern and southern armies and would indicate a break- through of nearly 120 miles from the starting point of the new German offensive from the Kursk-Kharkov sector.

Soviet dispatches said the city of Voronezh, on the rail line about midway between Moscow and Rostov—on-Don, was the goal of the Nazi drive. Voronezh lies 130 miles east of Kursk and 10 miles behind the Don.

There was no confirmation from Moscow of the German claim, although Red army headquarters conceded that the Germans had driven a wedge into Soviet lines in the Belgorod sector, 35 miles northeast of Kharkov

Soviet dispatches said "sanguinary battles" were raging around Belgorod, Volchansk and Kursk, with the Nazis hurling wave after wave of tanks and infantry across fields littered with the dead and wounded

Despite appalling losses, the Russians said, Hitler was striking with undiminished fury in an evident attempt to cut the north-south supply line and pave the way for a new drive against Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil treasures.

In London, military quarters described the Russian situation as "potentially very serious," and there was an inclination also to discourage undue enthusiasm over Gen. Rommel's setback in Egypt.

These quarters said that the Axis chieftain's hope of executing a swift conquest of Alexandria, Suez and the Suez canal had been severely checked, but that Gen. Auchinleck's armies were not yet strong enough to cut him off or to carry out a pursuit in strength.

Italian field headquarters asserted that an attack by British armored forces was "promptly repulsed" and that Axis warplanes machine-gunned and scattered British troops and truck columns. "A great number of motor vehicles were set on fire and badly damaged," the Italian communique said, adding that German and Italian bombers raided Alexandria, Suez and Port Said

Report Wavell Confers In Egypt

LONDON — (AP) — The Paris radio broadcast a report today that General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in chief in India, had arrived at Cairo and gone into immediate conference with General Sir Claude J. E. Auchinleck, his successor as Britain's commander in the Middle East.

Rommel's Retreat Call 'Imminent'

NEW YORK—(AP)—The New York Times said today that private advices received indirectly from Rome indicate that the withdrawal of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel from his present advanced position in Egypt to Matruh seems imminent.

Such a withdrawal "while the initiative remains in Axis hands rather than await the concentration of Auchinleck's reinforcements" was discussed, the Times said, at a desert meeting which unofficial reports said Rommel, Gen. Ugo Cavallero, chief of the Italian general staff, Field Marshal General Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the German army and other higher officers held yesterday.

Air Blows Against Nazis To Increase

LONDON— (AP) —American air blows against Germany will develop rapidly on a scale never before envisioned now that the United States air force has spread its wings over Nazi-held territory, military experts predicted today.

The July Fourth opening of an American air front in Europe, they said, meant that at least half of the ground preparation to put the air force into active service had been completed.

They expected the modest beginning, in which six American-flown Boston bombers took part in a daring daylight sweep on German-held Holland, to mushroom into a full-scale aerial onslaught.

"The main factor in opening any new air front is the immense amount of work which must be done on the ground before even one plane can be put into the air," one expert said.

Declares Nazis 'Stopped' In Egypt

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt —(U.P.)— Maj. Gen. Charles L. Scott, senior American military observer in the middel east, said today after a visit to the front that he believed the British imperial forces had the Germans stopped until they could refit and bring up supplies.

He described the co-operation by imperial infantry, artillery, armored and aerial units as perfect.

"Rommel will have to reorganize for a new offensive," he said. "How long that will take him I do not know.

"Now is the crucial time to hit him, particularly with air reinforcements."

Renews Appeal For India's Freedom

BOMBAY—(AP)—Declaring that "India is as much interested as her allies in warding off attack," Mohandas K. Gandhi proposed today that India be made free and that United Nations troops be allowed to remain to defend the country against the Japanese

The influential nationalist wrote in his weekly newspaper Harijan:

"I argue that Allied troops, if they remain, will do so not to exercise authority over the people or at India's expense, but will remain under a treaty with the government of a free India at the United Nations' expense for the sole purpose of repelling Japanese attacks and helping China."

He proposed that India be relieved of British taxes, authority and financial obligations so that she would be able to start a new national life with non-violence as its "predominant sanction"

Must Have a Car, Says Dignified British Mayor

LONDON —(INS)— The town of Southend (near London on the Thames Estuary) is the possessor of what is undoubtedly Britain's most dignified mayor.

Told that the Lord Mayor of London had given up his car as a patriotic gesture and was using buses and subways instead, the Mayor of Southend refused to take a hint; said he would keep right on using his 18 horse-power car.

"There is such a thing as dignity of office," he said, "and that dignity can only be withheld in a certain manner.

"If you want me to continue as your mayor, I must insist that I have a car to go around in."

army relief fund show at Indianapolis yesterday.

In this stunt, Teter sent his car 20 feet in the air, and 150 feet from ramp to ramp over a large bus. At Indianapolis yesterday afternoon he made the leap successfully over a large transport truck, but last night, attempting the leap over a semi-trailer transport truck, his car failed to take the jump from the first ramp, and fell under the landing ramp.

He suffered a broken neck and internal injuries, and was unconscious when workmen extricated his body from the wreckage which was cleared away by the use of acetylene torches. He was dead before the ambulance reached the hospital.

The "leap" was the final event on last night's show, and the show was to have been Lucky's last for the duration of the war, because of a recent government ruling ending such shows on July 10.

Teter is survived by his widow, and his father, A. W. Teter, who saw him die, and also by his mother and a sister, all of Noblesville, Ind.

The "rocket car leap" was first introduced by Teter in Wooster nine years ago, and was repeated in Mansfield that same year.

George Juergens of Cincinnati, was injured when an aerial bomb exploded on the ground.

The nation enjoyed its most "safe and sane" Fourth in years with only 317 being killed, as compared with a 628 total for the 1941 Fourth of July weekend.

Mansfield police said that only three accidents were reported on Friday, Saturday and Sunday with no injuries as compared to eight accidents with seven injuries and one death in 1941. State highway patrolmen reported two accidents with no injuries as compared to nine accidents last year with three injuries.

Police and state patrolmen were busy though. Twenty-one persons were arrested on speeding charges, three for illegally crossing yellow traffic lines, and six on various traffic violation charges.

The only injury accident reported in the Mansfield area was at Shelby where Richard Scherer, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scherer of near Shelby, received skull and ankle fractures when his bicycle and an auto collided in the city.

Mrs. Harold Chew of near Shelby, driver of the car, told Shelby police that the Scherer boy rode out from the intersection in front of her car.

He was taken to Shelby Memorial hospital where it was learned that his skull had been fractured and that a bone in his left leg was fractured. His condition was reported as "fair" today.

Arrested by Mansfield police on speeding charges were: William B. Maneese, Lexington; Ray Stepp, Cleveland; Gale Springer, Shelby; Aubrey Thrush, 29 West Arch street; Eugene B. Lubinsky, Cleveland; and Gene H. Zediker, 404 Russell road.

Stepp and Thrush were fined $10 and costs this morning in municipal court while the cases of the other four motorists were continued until Wednesday at 1:30 p. m.

State highway patrolmen arrested 15 drivers. Arrested on speeding charges were: Russell S. Dysert, Marion, John M. Adams, Cincinnati; Gilbert A. Koeth, Cleveland; Alfred C. Rapp, Cleveland; Peter C. Grenci, Cincinnati; Clifford O. Eberhard, Canton.

Dysert and Adams posted $16 30 bond and waived appearances in court. Koeth posted $20 bond and waived appearance in Ashland court where Rapp was fined $10 and costs. Granci was fined $10 and cosst by Mayor R. G. Booher, Mt. Gilead, while Eberhard will be heard in municipal court tomorrow.

Arrested by the state patrolmen on charges of illegally crossing a yellow line were Leo E. Pauley, Cleveland, and Delmer Reynolds, Corning, who paid $10 and costs in Ashland police court yesterday. George A. Zeides, 123 Prospect street, will be cited in Ashland police court on a similar charge tomorrow.

Fined $5 and costs for operating an auto without a muffler yesterday in Ashland police court was Albert H. Hootman, Jeromesville R. D. 2. John P. McGrath, jr., Columbus, paid a similar fine at Mt. Gilead on a charge of operating a car with insufficient lights.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch dismissed an unsafe operation charge against John A. Reeder, 57, Butler, R. D. 1, in municipal court this morning. Reeder's car was involved in an accident on state route 97 Friday.

Stanley M. Parrott, Lexington, was sentenced to 30 days in Richland county jail and his right to drive was suspended for one year after he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of driving a car without a license.

Morris E. Seidner, Bellville R. D. 2, was fined $5 and costs when he pleaded guilty in municipal court to a charge of failure to stop at a stop sign.

Traffic victims in accidents throughout the state included:

Upper Sandusky—Pearl Timmons, 16, of Kenton, when his truck crashed near here.

Toledo—Frank B. Johnson, 87, of auto crash injuries and Albert Ruedy, 49, when he fell from a hay wagon.

Chillicothe — George Coffman, 27, and his wife, Doris, 23, who lived near Athens, in crash one mile south of Chillicothe.

Akron—Mrs. Jennie Doubrava, 70, of Canton, two-car collision.

Steubenville—Frank A. Vonderau, 52, struck by hit-skip automobile.

Columbus—Steven Baldizsar, 19, car struck tree.

Cleveland—Emma Surls, 16, of Sebring, automobile collision; William Schmotzer, 20, of suburban Parma, car left road; John Slipota, 23, of Cuyahoga Heights, motorcycle plunged from highway.

Toledo—Richard R. Dechristopher, 18, messenger, in fall from automobile running board.

Hamilton—Clinton Allen, 16, automobile collision.

Springfield—Peter S. Myers, 25, reporter for the Springfield News, automobile overturned.

Drowning victims included:

Greenfield—Carol Jean Cooper, two, daughter of the Russel Coopers, in fish pond at depth of six inches.

Toledo—Harry Napierala, 26, fractured neck diving into quarry pool.

Columbus—Robert Watts, 22, of suburban Worthington, in Big Walnut creek where he was swimming

A Baltimore and Ohio passenger train killed Miss Doris Caldwell, 35, at Greenfield. The coroner of Highland county is investigating. Lightning killed Roy Lee Boyce, 42, of West Chester, near Hamilton, as he stood beneath a tree on his farm.

At a meetng of squadron commanders, Stone urged the CAP group to devote greater effort to strict military discipline, to enable their members to step more quickly into such CAP activities as the coastal patrol, which is under direct command of the Army Air corps.

Following the meeting, an inter-squadron bombing contest was staged and the Mansfield squadron emerged winner. The local squadron also presented a message pick-up demonstration.

Lieut. Charles A. Condon, of Company F, Ohio State guard, who had charge of drill training for the Mansfield squadron, was present for the inspection, as were Captain Glenn L. Bierly and Lieut. Harold P. Spreng of the guard unit.

Freighter Rams Cabin Cruiser In St. Clair River.

DETROIT—(INS)—Three persons were believed to have lost their lives today and 12 others were injured when a Great Lakes freighter crashed into a 42-foot cabin cruiser in the St. Clair river.

Known dead was Mrs. Irene Wiseman, 40, of suburban Highland Park. Missing and believed drowned were Barbara Bagley, 13, and her sister, Jacqueline, 14, St. Clair Shores. The other 12 persons aboard the craft were injured.

The power boat belonged to Thomas Dwyer, of Roseville, and it collided with the freighter James Watt owned by the Nicholson Steamship company. The crash occurred near Clay's Landing in the main channel of the river, north of Detroit. Dwyer suffered a possible fracture of the spine.

possible battle zone, military experts pointed out there would be no need to worry about them in the event that the Japanese attempted to move eastward and major engagements took place.

Should the Japanese attempt to invade other islands, this absence of civilians would leave the way clear for possible extension of the American bombing raids that already have taken a heavy toll of the enemy.

Only Saturday the navy revealed that despite adverse weather conditions army bombers had staged four new raids on Japanese installations and shipping in the Attu-Kiska area during the past two weeks.

Ever since the bombing of the Dutch Harbor naval base on June 3, the Nipponese have been moving men and materials into the Kiska area under cover of fog.

That the Nipponese apparently intend to make use of their toehold on the Aleutians was intimated by the navy announcement that on July 2 a patrol plane observed three enemy transports with escorting vessels off Agattu island, near Attu.

During the past month, army and navy planes have sunk or damaged more than 10 Japanese warships and auxiliary vessels.

ing south in two lines extending over the horizon. We counted 43 ships and the smoke from plenty of others over the horizon. They began firing and 15 destroyer escorts turned their guns on us. We picked out the biggest transports, came in at 15,000 feet and simultaneously went into a dive. We screamed down until the altimeters touched 300, and pressed the bomb button, then pulled out of the dive.

"Three bombs hit amidships and my transport seemed to buckle in the center. Ferguson got his ship and Summers his.

"I guess if we had as many dive-bombers as the Japs had transports there wouldn't have been any invasion of Java. On the way back we passed over the Allied and Japanese ships still exchanging broadsides almost at point-blank range. The heavier Japanese ships had closed in.

"Two of ours which were in flames, had fallen out of line. An hour later the battle of Java sea was over and there was nothing to bar the passage of the Japanese invasion armada.

Twelve hours after we bombed them the Japanese transports arrived at their rendezvous and the troops began to land. It was the beginning of the end. With the rest of the men of the squadron we were evacuated to Australia. Our three gallant planes were destroyed."

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The great and probably decisive test of strength between the European Axis and the Allies at last is well under way, after many costly delays and false starts by Herr Hitler, due chiefly to the magnificent fight which the Russians have been waging.

The Nazi chief hasn't waited to see the outcome of his henchmen Rommel's offensive against Egypt before slashing again with great weight at the Red front in the Kursk-Kharkov sector. His immediate objective seems to be the capture of the railway junction of Voronezh, thereby cutting the main Moscow-Rostov railroad and depriving the Bolshevists of their last direct supply line in that zone. His ultimate goal is to crash through the Ukraine gateway into the Caucasus.

The Caucasus, the Middle East and Egypt are the heart of a vast, crescent-shaped front which must be regarded as an individual theater of operations, although of course it interlocks with other fronts. The struggle for this territory where East meets West, may easily determine the outcome of the war, and most certainly will vitally affect its course.

Thus far only the tips of this crescent have come into action. These bloody points are represented by Rommel's drive into Egypt and by his master's fresh effort to carve his way through the Red front within the next four months before winter again clamps down on him.

Nothing decisive has happened on either crescent-tip as yet. While the Allies have halted Rommel and even hammered him back somewhat, the battle is far from over and it would be wishful thinking to assume that the resourceful Nazi commander is beaten. The important facts from the Allied standpoint are that the Axis forces have been stopped and that the Allies have at least for the moment seized the initiative from their enemy.

Over on the other crescent-point the Germans claim to have thrown back the Red line and reached the river Don on a broad front. The Nazis have exaggerated so much in their communiques that we can't trust them but must await confirmation from Moscow. However, the Muscovites do say that the enemy has driven a wedge into their line in the Belgorod sector, and there is no doubt that Hitler is exerting great pressure on the Russians in this new attack.

It is worthy of note that the Hitlerites thus far have lacked, or at least haven't shown, the striking power which they displayed a year ago in their assault on the Soviet. The Russians say Hitler has lost so heavily in men and materiel in the past 12 months that he is incapable of staging an all-out offensive.

That may be a correct estimate, but both sides have taken such heavy punishment that only a fresh start, such as now is under way, can determine the relative striking power of these giant armies. It will be surprising if Hitler isn't holding considerable strength in reserve, and we may expect some bitter fighting, and many dark days for the Allies, before the issue is decided.

ROUT PROWLERS WITH GUNFIRE AT WAR PLANT

Guard Empties Gun at Four Who Dug Hole Under Factory Fence.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Four men who may have been saboteurs were driven away from the grounds of the Link Belt company, a war production plant, by gunfire before dawn Saturday, Chicago ordnance district officers disclosed today.

The men had dug a hole beneath the high fence surrounding the factory and one of them had crawled inside the enclosure when they were discovered by William Damrill, a guard.

Damrill told police and army officers that three men were standing outside the fence and that they passed a large brown package, approximately two feet square, over the fence.

The guard said he was standing in a patch of weeds when he saw the men in a floodlit area and called to them. The man inside the fence pushed the package back to his companions, drew a gun and fired three shots.

Damrill fired six shots at the intruders, emptying his gun. He said the man inside the grounds screamed and fell and was pulled through the hole by his companions. The four fled, escaping in the dark.

Three discharged .32 caliber shells were found on the ground beside the fence. Police ballistics experts were to examine them today.

Maj. A. B. Pattou, plant protection officer for the Chicago ordnance district, praised Damrill for his alertness and said Damrill had averted "what might well be an extension of the activities of eight German spies recently landed on the eastern coast from U-boats and who were captured by the FBI."

WRECK AXIS PROPERTY

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica—(U.P.)—The wreckage of Axis-owned properties littered San Jose and nearby provinces today, the result of week-end riots by irate Costa Ricans in retaliation for last week's sinking in San Jose Limon harbor of a United Fruit company vessel.

Sixty persons were wounded Saturday night and early yesterday as thousands of San Jose residents systematically wrecked scores of Axis-owned commercial houses. Similar destruction was carried out in the provinces, chiefly in the town of Cartago, despite attempts by police patrols to break up the crowds.

L. W. REMY DIES

Retired Stock Dealer, Farmer Succumbs at 79.

A retired Richland county farmer and stock dealer, Louis W. Remy, 79, died yesterday at Mansfield Sanitarium after a lingering illness.

Born in Washington township, Nov. 26, 1862, he lived in Richland county all his life. He was a member of St. Peter's Evangelical church in Washington township.

Surviving are a brother, Martin A. Remy of Mansfield; a granddaughter; and several nieces and nephews.

The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral home to remain until funeral services at 1:30 p. m. Tuesday at St. Peter's Evangelical church. Rev. James Davis will officiate. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

War Work Brings 254 Millions In Plant Expansions

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Cleveland plant improvements have cost $254,134,856 in the past six months, according to a survey announced today by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

During the six-month period, 17 new manufacturing companies started operations, while 122 established industries expanded their facilities. Expansion included the addition of 18,163,306 square feet of manufacturing space and purchasing of new equipment and machinery.

The new companies, together with Cleveland's new bomber plant, under construction, will jump the city's industrial payroll by more than $98,000,000 it was estimated.

The survey also showed that approximately 75 per cent of industrial employment is in plants working on war production and that industrial employment to June 1, 1942, was 210,000, or 21,000 above last year.

RECOVER PLANE CRASH VICTIMS

Bodies of Soldiers Killed In Air Accident Taken Out of Sierras.

(By International News Service)

BISHOP, Cal.—A seven months search for the bodies of six army officers and two enlisted men killed in an army transport plane crash in the high Sierras on Dec. 12 neared an end today.

Army searchers recovered the bodies of Major General Herbert Dargue of Mitchell Field, L. I., commanding general of the first air force, and Capt. James Leavitt of March Field, Cal., from the ice and snow of the Sierras, leaving only the body of Staff Sergt. Stephen Hoffman of Charleroi, Pa., still to be recovered.

After being balked repeatedly by alternate thaws and freezes in the high altitude, army men finally succeeded in uncovering the bodies of the two officers about 100 yards from the wrecked plane.

The plane had been found May 7 by G. B. Burns, Spokane, Wash., real estate man, whose son, First Lieut. Homer C. Burns, co-pilot, was one of the victims of the crash.

Burns vowed that he would never rest until his son's body was found, and although he lacked mountain climbing experience, he braved high Sierra storms and succeeded after weeks of search in locating the plane.

DEATH CLAIMS H. L. BARKER, 71

Hubert L. Barker, 71, of St. Petersburg, Fla., died early today at 183 Marion avenue where he had resided since coming to Mansfield two months ago. Death followed an extended illness.

Mr. Barker was born in Bangor, Me., and for many years was associated with the firm of Stetson and Cutler in Boston.

His nearest living relatives are cousins, Mrs. C. Lyman Lantz of Mansfield, Mrs. R. H. Lee Young of St. Petersburg, and Mrs. C. Willis Townsend of Detroit.

The body was removed to the Jones Memorial where services will be conducted at 8 p. m. Tuesday by Rev. H. S. Garnes, pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran church. The body will be cremated in Cleveland with interment to follow at Exeter, Me. Friends are asked to omit flowers.

YOUNG NAVAL OFFICER HERO OF AXIS SUBMARINE ATTACK

(By International News Service)

A SOUTHERN PORT — His shipmates thought they had him pegged: young, green, and "soft."

Today those same seamen sang the praise of the young naval officer who went down fighting with his ship, an American merchantman which was torpedoed and sunk June 15 by an Axis submarine about 150 miles north of a Caribbean port.

The ship was crowded with 63 survivors of two other torpedoed craft and of the 110 persons aboard, 18 were reported missing. Less than an hour before the freighter was struck, her crew had witnessed a submarine attack on one of the two other craft.

The missing included Capt. Erc Johanssen of California and Chief Mate George Collins, four other crew members, three gun-crew men, and nine of the survivors of the previous sinkings.

There was praise for all of these, but the highest went to a Lieut Kammerer, who had shown disappointment in being assigned to the freighter.

"He had received only a few weeks' training," said Second Mate Harlan Soeten of Philadelphia in relating how the young gunner spent all his spare time aboard studying gunnery books. "When he found himself in position for real service to his country he proved to be a true seaman. His work was an inspiration. He went down with his gun while beckoning others to help man it.

HEADS VETS

Akron Man New Commander of Foreign War Veterans.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Emerson C. Woolf of Akron today became the new commander of the Ohio department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The veterans' organization, which ended a two-day convention Sunday decided to buy 15 training planes and to conduct preliminary training schools for young men preparing for air cadet examinations. Members will subscribe to the plane-training fund.

Other new officers were Russell G. Gessner of Cleveland, senior vice commander; Thomas Feltz of Hamilton, junior vice commander; George A. Kistner of Sandusky, adjutant quartermaster; John Choffey of Cleveland, judge advocate; Dr. Raymond C Snow of Cleveland, departmental surgeon, and A. T. Awires of Akron, departmental chaplain.

The women's auxiliary elected Mrs. Miriam Hocker of Akron as its president.

Funeral services for the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. George Farry, 153 Sturges avenue, who died Saturday evening at General hospital, are to be held at 4 p. m. today. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Surviving besides the parents are one brother, Jack Farry, at home.

FOUR DOGS FACE ELECTROCUTION

Put to Death by Animal Protective League For Killing Sheep.

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Four dogs which killed six Shropshire sheep of a flock of 135 on the Hall Brothers' farm in Olmstead Falls will be electrocuted today at animal protective league headquarters.

Henry L. Leffingwell, county dog warden, said execution within 48 hours after capture was mandatory under the Ohio dog license law and besides, "sheep killers never reform," Leffingwell said.

He added that a combination of hunger and the natural wolf strain led to the killings. The apparent leader of the dogs is a mongrel shepherd-collie, the others a mongrel collie, a short-hair and a chow.

Mrs. Elma Cox, Succumbs at Hospital In Willard.

WILLARD — Mrs. Elma Kirkwood Cox, 78, widow of the late John Cox, died Saturday at Municipal hospital following a stroke of paralysis Friday.

A life-long resident of this community, she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. P. Dawson, north of Willard. Surviving besides her daughter are four grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow, at the Secor Funeral home. Rev. Paul W. Sharp, pastor of the United Brethren church, will officiate. Burial will be in New Haven cemetery.

Henderson to Renew Request For Additional Funds This Week.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Congress heads into a two-front battle over major parts of President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program this week with increasing signs of an administration victory on major legislation.

The controversaries involve Price Administration Leon Henderson's request for a $161,000,000 appropriation which was slashed to $75,000,000 by the house, and the legislative deadlock over the $680,000,000 farm bill for fiscal 1943.

Henderson appears before a senate appropriations committee early this week to renew his plea for additional funds to combat inflation. A preliminary survey of sentiment indicated that his request probably would be granted.

Despite personal friction between Henderson and congress, senators have privately admitted they do not wish to be placed in the position of withholding means to combat spiraling prices. But they are determined to establish some checks over the office of price administration.

Two members of the senate appropriations subcommittee — Pat McCarran, (D., Nev.) and Gerald P. Nye, (R.,N.D.) — advocate a provision directing Henderson to obtain senate confirmation of all OPA salaried appointees receiving more than $4,000 a year.

McCarran said in an interview that "there is no other way for congress to check the efficiency of Henderson's personnel." He favors an increase in the house-approved OPA appropriation.

NYE advocated an appropriation for the office which would pay for its operation for a few months.

"They can then return to congress and ask for more money," he said. "That way, we can keep a close check on the agency."

The senate considers a resolution today designed to break the legislative deadlock which has left the agriculture department without funds for six days. It would grant the agency a one-month continuation of its fiscal 1942 appropriations.

Punched, Fined After Curbstone Criticism Of U. S.

Frank O'Boyle of Cleveland, picked the wrong audience, according to Mansfield police, when he allegedly made a few deprecatory remarks about the United States government, especially on the Fourth of July.

William Carter, colored, Mansfield, heard the remarks and pitched into O'Boyle with fists swinging.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," police quoted Carter as telling O'Boyle. "You ought to be glad you live in a country where you can go where you want to go and do what you want to do."

Police were called to the scene of the encounter which took place at the corner of Sixth and Main streets and hauled O'Boyle to jail.

O'Boyle pleaded guilty when arraigned in municipal court this morning on an intoxication charge and was fined $10 and costs.

Police said O'Boyle came to Mansfield Saturday to meet a middle-aged Mansfield woman who had been corresponding with him through a "lonely hearts" club.

EXPERTS CALLED

Psychiatrists To Testify In Lisbon Murder Trial.

LISBON—(U.P.)—The state today called two psychiatrists in the first degree murder trial of Richard Moore, 28, of East Liverpool, charged with killing his father-in-law, Oscar Williams, 53.

The prosecution said Dr. Arthur G. Hyde of Massillon state hospital and Dr. Edward B. Mayer of Pittsburgh, will testify that Moore was sane on June 8 when he shot to death his father-in-law, and wounded his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Moore, 25, her mother, Mrs. Edna Williams, 51, and a brother-in-law, Paul Erwin, 30.

"Our country's honor calls upon us for a vigorous and manly exertion; and if we now shamefully fail, we shall become infamous to the whole world."—George Washington, addressing the American troops before the Battle of Long Island, August 27, 1776.

It's an unhappy idea of some people that MacArthur should get into politics instead of continuing to perform valuable service.

It used to be said that other nations could live on what Americans throw away, and recent scrap collections seem to prove it.

Adapt Budget To Shrinking Revenues

WITH appropriations for national expenditures running into more billions of dollars than can be comprehended, and with federal spending for non-military purposes continuing at an unparalleled pace, it seems difficult for state, county and municipal subdivisions to adjust themselves to an economy program that is even more vitally important than ever before.

An example of this is seen in the current budget request of the city of Mansfield, being made ready for submission to the county budget commission, with a public hearing to intervene before final decision on amounts to be asked for operation of various city departments.

As has become common practice, requests for some of the departments are admittedly more than is likely to be granted, and it is this phase of budget manipulation that makes the process so mystifying to the public, as it seems to involve jockeying that should have no place in the handling of public business and expenditure of taxpayers' money.

The city's preliminary set-up of a budget that represents a substantial increase over that of the preceding year is in direct contrast to action of the county commissioners in reducing their 1943 budget request, thus indicating intention to continue an economy program in administering county business.

Anticipation of decreased revenues from state sources is fully justified, but there should also be a recognized need to trim municipal operating costs accordingly, rather than to assume that expenditures can be continued in a care-free way without regard for shrinking revenues, or, as County Auditor Wolfe pointed out, "There's no point in asking for more than could be received."

An open hearing on the budget will accomplish little unless the public can be represented by some one or more persons who, through experience and study, really understand the intricacies of budgeting to meet anticipated costs and who are also acquainted with probable available revenues for various purposes.

Need for emergency funds, for possible civilian defense requirements or other unforeseen happenings, must also be taken into account in looking toward next year, making it a matter of sound judgment to keep routine operating costs to the lowest practicable minimum.

An Example of Unified Action

AN EFFECTIVE demonstration of what can be accomplished by concerted effort is seen in the unanimity with which American magazines accepted the idea of displaying the Stars and Stripes on the cover of issues that appeared just before the Fourth of July.

This was not by chance, as some may have supposed, but resulted from a suggestion made last April by John McNamara, a newspaper promotion manager, approved by the treasury department and adopted by the National Publishers association.

It is estimated that 500 periodicals co-operated and that the number of copies of covers on which the flag appeared totaled approximately 90,000,000.

It has long been a custom of practically every newspaper to make prominent display of the flag in Fourth of July editions, and on other appropriate occasions, and it is gratifying to note that magazines, with their exceptional color-printing facilities, joined in carrying Old Glory into millions of American homes at a time when its significance and inspiration will strengthen the spirit of all who see it.

No Flag On School Flag Pole

ETERNAL VIGILANCE is not only the "price of liberty," it is also the price of assuring the functioning of delegated responsibility.

Last Saturday—the Fourth of July—was a day on which the American flag should have flown from every public building . . . and this was remembered in a number of instances by persons delegated to put up the flag in the morning and take it down at sunset.

Flags may have been displayed at some of Mansfield's public school buildings but a noticeable exception was at John Simpson Junior high school, where an impressive and lofty flag staff on the school ground was left through the national holiday without adornment of the Stars and Stripes.

The fact that this is in the school vacation period does not excuse the oversight. Somebody fumbled. It should not happen again.

Year Without a County Fair

DECISION by the Richland County Agricultural Society to forego holding a county fair this year, in co-operation with the government effort to conserve rubber and gasoline, will probably be quite generally approved.

In normal times a county fair serves a purpose in the encouragement of agriculture which is regarded by many as justifying the expenditure of state and county public funds required for its maintenance. It has particular value in promoting farm youth activities in a competitive way.

This year's conditions are far from normal, however, and the incentive to maximum argicultural production to meet war needs is probably greater than could be induced by prize awards at a county fair.

After the war has been won, and as America starts readjustments in which farm production will play a large part, it may appear that resumption of an annual county fair will have an essential place in the program.

While American warehouses are bulging with wheat and sugar, Japan is burdened by a silk surplus—which at least gives the Japs food for thought.

You never hear of a city being "baseball crazy" when the home team is losing.

LOOK WHO'S HOLDING THE SCREEN DOOR OPEN!

Top Commander Hard to Choose

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WHEN we and the British establish our continental European front, who's to be its generalissimo?

Under our system, Franklin D. Roosevelt, as president of the United States, is our armed forces' commander-in-chief. The British system is like ours, with the chieftainship vested in John Bull's prime minister, Winston Churchill at present.

There'll have to be a field commander, however, to launch and direct the new joint land campaign. We and our allies didn't have one during our participation in World War I, and our lack of unity seriously hampered our combined effort against the kaiser.

Our own and Britain's combatant leaders didn't conflict with one another. They were very cooperative instead. Still, neither one gave all-around orders or accepted total responsibility. Finally Marshal Foch gravitated virtually into the job, but the arrangement never was overly satisfactory and its weakness doubtless considerably delayed the finish.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, as commander-in-chief, aren't professional fighting men, in the sense of directing troops in action.

Their partnership stunt is international grand strategy, including diplomacy and lots of other details, besides advancing and maneuvering and occasionally falling slightly backward at just the right minute. These things have to be decided on upon short notice, and a field commander is materially handicapped if he can't order 'em without delaying to consult a colleague.

Recently Discussed.

Selection of a candidate to attend to this unified job presumably was minutely discussed by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill during their recent confab in Washington.

What the Russians and Chinese think on the subject doesn't greatly matter.

Naturally they want a competent Anglo-American choice made, because their own chances will depend on it. There won't be any personal jealousies between them and ourselves, though. The Russians have their own particular front and the Chinese have theirs. Furthermore Stalin is absolute enough to do his own deciding, and so is Chiang Kai-shek of China. They can be overthrown, but they can't be voted out of office, as Prime Minister Churchill can, any time, or have a Republican congress elected against 'em, as President Roosevelt can, at least theoretically, next November.

But President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill must hit on a mutually acceptable Anglo-American field commander, or they must have done so already, and picking him can't have been so easy.

Do we want a Briton put in charge of our troops on the European west front? Or is it likely that the British will enjoy having an American at the top of their command there? The two unquestionably will have the sense to harmonize ostensibly. Nevertheless, if there's a little setback, it's safe betting that each will blame the other for it.

It's comparatively simple to assign an American Army officer to act as an adviser to Stalin. He's ONLY an adviser. It's still easier for an American to get away with it in China, because the Chinese ADMIT that they need plenty of military advice. That is, it WOULD have been easier in China, if our adviser there hadn't had such bad luck at it.

No Mere Adviser.

But, anyway, the impending Anglo-American situation isn't going to call for a mere adviserships.

That second front will require a supreme head.

Will Britain agree to let us send such a chap over to their bank of the Atlantic?—to tell John Bull how to manage?—after Waterloo and similar events? Or will we acquiesce in British direction?

Undue Alarm About Heart Disease.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A LITTLE book in the series, "Help Your Doctor to Help You," published by Harper and Brothers is devoted to heart disease. In spite of the fact that we frequently hear nowadays that heart disease is increasing and we should be familiar with it for that reason, when the news comes to any individual that he has heart disease there are few things that are more upsetting and disturbing. But the heart is a remarkably resilient organ and people with even serious heart derangements often live to generous years.

Written for Several Classes.

"This book was written to help, first, those thousands of men and women who think they have heart disease when they haven't; second, those thousands who, having heart disease, are much more alarmed and anxious over it than they need to be; third, those who, having symptoms of heart disease, do not realize their significance, and do not know that they should immediately consult a physician; and fourth, those with real heart disease who need to understand the nature of their trouble." So says one of the first paragraphs in this useful little volume.

The first group of cases mentioned is a very large one. Many a man and woman worries over heart disease when actually the organ is perfectly normal and it is only the nerves that are playing tricks with it. In another large group of cases the stabbing and aching pains that the patient thinks arise in his heart are not coming from that organ at all, but are really of a rheumatic nature, coming from the chest wall.

Symptoms of Heart Disease.

Even when heart disease is present, it does not mean that death is near. I saw a patient the other day aged 66 who had heard the diagnosis of heart trouble pronounced on him over twenty years ago and while he certainly still had heart disease, it was not giving him any trouble.

Naturally, heart disease is increasing because everybody, if he lives long enough, will have some deviation from normal in the heart. The good doctor says over and over again to men and women over fifty, "If I were to find your heart in a boy of twenty, I might be concerned about it, but in you it is normal."

Of the different signs and danger signals that suggest the coming of heart disease nothing is a more delicate indication of impairment in function than shortness of breath on going upstairs or walking fast. This means a shortness of breath which is brought on by an amount of walking or exercise which until a short time before did not cause distress. A second sign of heart weakness is pain behind the breast bone and in the pit of the stomach which usually comes on after exertion.

The load on the circulation is about doubled during the digestion of a meal and therefore many cases of heart pain occur after meals and are put down to acute indigestion.

A symptom that is erroneously thought to mean heart disease is palpitation—the consciousness of a rapidly beating heart. Another symptom is an extra beat of the heart interpolated every once in a while in the course of a normal rhythm. A person may feel this extra beat when he sits with his hands closed and the feeling that he has an irregular pulse may make him very unhappy.

Another symptom which is often put down to heart disease but which is not, is a form of air hunger: the feeling that one is not able to take a deep breath.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, July 6, 1922.

Trend toward "quiet" neckties was noted among "well-dressed" Mansfield men.

Health Officer Dr. John Maglott appealed to citizens to cut weeds and high grass in their backyards and along alleys.

L. D. Alexander moved from Dunbilt court to Lexington.

Several Mansfielders will remember this as the anniversary of their divorce.

John C. Burns, of Chicago, only surviving charter member of Madison lodge, Knights of Pythias, was presented with a fifty-year jewel.

Birthday surprise party was given at Elks' grill in honor of Julius Weber.

Mrs. J. D. Scott, Bowman street, returned after spending 18 months with son in California.

TODAY IN HISTORY

John Paul Jones, American naval officer, was born July 6, 1747. Jones, a Scotsman, came to the colonies, just before the Revolutionary war, in which he served as a privateer. In an old French Indiaman, rechristened the "Bonhomme Richard," he attacked the powerful British frigate "Serapis" convoying a merchant fleet to the Baltic, and compelled her to surrender. Here it was where he uttered the famous words, "I have not begun to fight."

Politics Still Very Much Alive, Looking Past November to 1944

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Politics is not adjourned. As a matter of fact the pot is boiling here in Washington, and is gradually spraying its steam over the country. Not only is politics active with respect to the election of the entire house and one third plus of the senate in November, with a sprinkling of governors and countless local officers, but there is a lot of maneuvering with respect to what November's results may do in affecting the presidential nominations in 1944.

To an intelligent foreigner studying our situation without prejudice this must seem an extraordinary instance of much ado about nothing. For instance there is Henry A. Wallace, vice president because of the strong-arm methods used by the administration at at Chicago in June, 1940, and, it would seem, the heir apparent. There is Paul V. McNutt, Indiana's pride and joy, who has just been handed another job—that of marshalling manpower — which was figured to be enough to kill off anybody politically. Incidentally this follows the other dose of political poison Handsome Paul was handed—that Social Security mess.

Paul's political digestive apparatus, aided by the focussing of popular interest on the war and away from the crazy quilt he was trying to rationalize, prevented the first dose of poison from being lethal. Pains are being taken to make the present dose more effective, but the Hoosier's political constitution seems remarkable. He is not politically dead yet.

It must be remembered, to understand this, that McNutt's strength with the delegates at the Chicago convention was simply flabbergasting when one considers how boss ridden that convention was. McNutt himself had to plead with the delegates to "take their orders" and vote for the man the president wanted as his running mate.

Naturally, while this was the sort of action which one might expect to result in gratitude, if one ignored the normal functioning of human nature, the real result was to make the powers that be determined to sidetrack the Indiana statesman.

THAT not having been successfully accomplished, it would appear that it will take all the strength of the administration to put Henry Wallace over at the next Democratic convention against McNutt—or anyone else who may meanwhile capture public fancy.

The fly in this ointment from the standpoint of Wallace's friends is simply this — that if Roosevelt is strong enough to nominate Wallace in 1944 he won't do it. He will nominate Roosevelt! The president's health seems excellent, despite frequent colds. If anything should happen to him, and Wallace should thereby become president, there might be a different story. A president in office has a lot of power. Even Herbert Hoover, obviously doomed, and William Howard Taft, likewise, were able not only to force their own renominations but to be influential in other ways bearing on their convention's actions. Hoover forced the renomination of a weak running mate, and forced the toning down of the wet plank.

BUT assuming the continuance of FDR's health, nothing in sight is likely to prevent his renomination for a fourth term. As a matter of fact nothing now in sight is likely to prevent his election to a fourth term.

If the war is still raging, and the conquest of Japan is not expected by the most optimistic before that, it would appear that the old prejudice against swopping horses in midstream would be enough. If the war has just been concluded, the same argument would apply with respect to the immediate aftermath plans.

Besides, the Republicans have no outstanding leader, and no issue with a nation-wide appeal.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Over in the department of agriculture, sugar has lost its sweetness.

The reason: an avalanche of letters, the like of which the department has rarely seen before on any single subject. The general theme: Is it true (or why is it) that the government is paying (or urging) sugar beet and cane farmers to curtail production when we, the people, have to submit to sugar rationing because of an alleged shortage?

Picked at random were letters from Michigan, Tennessee, Pennsylvania and California.

All day on the same note: "I have heard the government criticized as inconsistent in rationing sugar and, at the same time, supporting an agricultural policy which forces farmers to plow under a portion of their sugar beet (or cane crops)." "Is it a fact that the U. S. government is paying growers NOT to raise sugar in this country, and if so why?

WHAT about the annual report from a major western sugar firm, which contains the statement, "Sugar beet acreage allotments to farms in company territory in 1941 were restricted by the secretary of agriculture to a total of 12 per cent less than 1940?

Here is the agriculture department's answer, as set forth by Joshua Bernhardt, chief of the sugar agency!

"The 1941 beet acreage restriction was required under the Sugar Act of 1937, which provides that federal payments to any domestic area may not be made on more sugar than is needed to fill that area's quota and establish normal reserves. At the time that the need for 1941 restriction was announced, that is late in 1940, there was a tremendous over-normal granuary of sugar in this country and in Cuba . . . It was then that sugar beet growers who wished to receive federal payments were informed that it would be necessary for them to reduce their 1941 plantings. Incidentally this was the only time since the federal sugar programs started in 1934 that the continental beet area, as a whole, had to restrict production. As a matter of fact, since these programs began, beet sugar production has increased 22 per cent, while that of the mainland sugar cane area, comprising Louisiana and Florida, has more than doubled.

"This year, of course, there are no federal restrictions whatsoever on sugar production in any domestic area.

"When congress extended the life of the sugar act (until 1944) last December, it increased the rate of payments (one third) to domestic sugar producers so as to enable them to grow sugar under wartime conditions. Secretary Wickard has expressed the hope that these increased payments, coupled with higher sugar prices and the absence of production limitations would result in an expanded sugar output this year."

THERE you have the agriculture department's answer to one of the most widespread rumors that has been leveled in their direction since this war began.

If sugar growers anywhere this year are not getting their government payments, it's because they have failed to comply with other provisions of the sugar act.

Soft Ball Interlude

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — Abbott's Rabbits are on the move. Not only do they slip fast curves past the rival Broadway teams, they excursion around Union City, N. J., and Garden City, L. I., and take on the soldiers at Fts. Hamilton and Monmouth. At Hamilton they took a beating, but then what's a beating when you're only playing for the helluvit anyway?

This is soft ball I'm talking about. Practically all the big musical comedy hits have teams. Producer George Abbott ("Best Food Forward") never loses an opportunity to talk about his outfit, which has attained a great deal of fame on local soft ball diamonds recently. The team is known as Abbott's Rabbits. They wear pale blue turtle-neck sweaters with a white rabbit on the front, plus the initials "B.F.F.," which stands for "Best Foot Forward."

THE line-up of the Rabbits reads like the cast of characters in Best Food Forward. On the line-up you'll find Kenneth Bower, who plays Hunk, the funny boy with a face like Joe E. Brown. You'll find Gil Stratton, the hero; there's Bobby Harrell, the tumbling acrobatic dancer in the checkered racetrack pants. There's Stuart Langley, Richard Dick, and the Barton twins, William and Wilber, who hail from Baltimore and who look so much alike that they draw each other's checks on payday.

Most of these games, that is with local teams, are played on the soft ball diamonds at Central park. Among their opponents have been the "Sons O' Fun" (Olsen & Johnson), and the "Let's Face It" crowd....The word now is that "By Jupiter," the street's newest hit, is organizing a team...

HA HA, Phil Baker has changed it: "When a Jap admiral sees the U. S. mosquitos coming he screams, "Quick, Hirohito, the fleet!"

And Meyer Davis chimes in with the one about the Nazi soldier who was caught stealing another soldier's boot . . . "Please give me one more chance," begged the Nazi. "Why should we," replied the commanding officer coldly, "who do you think we are — Hitler!"

That big guy munching peanuts back of first base at the Polo Grounds all last week was Clark Gable . . . Johnny Green, the composer and conductor of the "By Jupiter" band, goes into the Air Corps in October . . . Johnny Long, the band leader, is only 27.

A Farmer's Diary

It Beats the Devil

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN A VERY familiar story, written by Washington Irving, he tells of a conversation between Tom Walker and the Devil. Tom, who was a selfish miser, happened to dig into the soil with his cane and unearthed a skull.

"And what are you doing on my land?" came a croaking voice from behind him. Startled, Tom turned to find a black terrifying figure like no one he had seen on earth.

"Your lands," he sneered, "No more your grounds than mine—this belongs to Deacon Peabody."

"I have a prior claim," declared the other...and then ensued the strange bargain between Tom Walker and the figure symbolic of the forces of destruction, that has become a classic.

RECENTLY I visited a hilly farm, and was talking with the farmer, when a stranger in a fine car drove up the rutty lane to the barn bridge and climbed with difficulty the steep grade to where we stood in an upper field. He was a fine appearing, pleasant gentleman, and he puffed heavily as he greeted us.

"Your place is almost out of reach," he said.

My farmer friend was suspicious, and nodded only. His patched threadbare overalls contrasted sharply with the well-dressed comer—and I knew there was an inward mental clash between the men.

"Who owns this farm?" the stranger inquired, smiling.

"I do," said the other shortly.

"Would you mind if I asked a few questions?"

"I'm pretty busy," the farmer said. "But I reckon I'll wait to find out what you want."

"I'm from the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources. Farms about here are producing less than they did, and farmers are not doing so well. The quality of the land makes all the difference between good buildings, good schools in prosperous neighborhoods and barren, tumbledown, communities."

"Well, tell me what to mix this loose dirt with, to keep it from washing down hill," suggested the farmer.

"With brains," came back the other—grinning disarmingly.

We all laughed, but not idly. "Might be there wouldn't be enough of brains among these hills to make much difference," muttered the farmer.

"I was born among the hills, myself," twinkled the other. "So be careful what you say. It takes a wiser man to improve a hilly farm than to make a profit on level bottom land. The state and the nation are interested in helping to keep the soil right here, and in making it more productive. Careless use of what we have defeats America more than a war..."

As the stranger took graceful leave, a half hour later, my friend remarked—"I was peeved at first sight of him, but that man's got something. Our soil is our bank account, and it's overdrawn for most of us. I'm goin' to do a little figurin' of my own before I say there's nothing to be learned on this farm."

GALION HOLDS GALA FOURTH CELEBRATION

Fireworks Show at Heise Park Climaxes Day of Activities.

GALION—From the time an aerial salute was fired at 9 a. m. Saturday until the last of the fireworks flickered out after 11 p. m. Galion's second big Fourth of July celebration meant fun and excitement for all those who attended.

Climax of the day's entertainment came at 10 p. m. when war bonds were awarded. H. R. Kline, of 716 South Boston street, won a $100 bond. H. E. Gresmer of Crestline, a $75 bond; Harriet Volk, of 352 North Market street, a $50 bond; and Mrs. R. W. Stevens, of 201½ South Market street, a $25 bond.

Guests from Cleveland, Marion, Mansfield, Mt. Gilead and Galion were present Sunday afternoon at Heise park when the Ireland family reunion was held.

It was decided to hold the gathering next year at the same place, but no date was set. Twenty-five relatives were present.

PRAISE BOSTON SIREN SYSTEM

Compressed Air Operated Raid Signals Serve as Models.

(By United Press)

BOSTON—First of its kind in the nation, Boston's co-ordinated system of compressed air-operated air-raid warning sirens and loud speakers serves as a model for other cities.

Operated on a radio principle, the siren-speakers can transmit warnings or spoken messages to Boston's 800,000 residents over a system of 21 installations at strategic points throughout the city. Work is now being completed to enable a single broadcaster to send messages from a central point over the entire system or over any number of loud speakers desired.

Effective range of siren-speakers is about three-quarters of a mile each, although in some instances the signals have been heard above the city noises at greater distances.

Costing $1,500 apiece, the horns are installed in groups of four at some locations while at other sites a single unit has proven adequate.

Completing its comprehensive air-raid alarm system, Boston has created an auxiliary system utilizing about 70 church bells and factory whistles. Persons responsible for operating the whistles and bells are notified by a fire department tapper system or couriers if the system is disrupted.

FIRE RAGES IN WESTERN FOREST

300 Men Battle Blaze Over 8,000 Acres In California.

BAKERSFIELD, Cal. — (INS) — More than 300 men, including 100 recruited in Los Angeles, today sought to control a forest fire that has destroyed 8,000 acres of oak and pinon.

The fire is burning along the south slope of the Piute mountains in the Walker basin, 30 miles east of Bakersfield. It started Saturday, apparently from a car that caught fire along a highway.

The blaze, extending into a part of the Sequoia National forest, has destroyed several mountain cabins and is headed toward higher levels where there are many more mountain homes.

GALION GIRL WEDS SOLDIER IN QUIET CHURCH CEREMONY

GALION—Choosing July 4th as her wedding day Dorothy Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Myers, was united in marriage Saturday to Staff Sergeant LeRoy Beaulieu, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Beaulieu. The single ring service was held at St. Joseph's church with Reverend Father William Pfeiffer in charge of the mass.

Wedding music was presented by Marguerite Dorian. Martha McManus, school friend of the bride, was her only attendant. For her wedding the bride wore a light green suit accentuated by yellow and white accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of sweet peas. The bride's mother chose navy and white for her costume.

Best man was Donald Beaulieu, brother of the groom. Following the wedding ceremony a dinner for the immediate families was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mrs. Beaulieu, graduate of Galion high school and has been employed at the Knisley and Coble Law office. Her husband attended Galion high school. He is stationed at Camp Forrest, Tenn., in the cavalry division of the United States army. The couple left after the reception for Camp Forrest where they will reside for the present.

Fear of tire thieves seems to be influencing others than rationing board officials in Galion, for according to a survey of the building permits which have been issued at City Service Director Charles Geiger's office, the construction of garages has rivalled that of dwellings since July, 1941.

Records reveal that 25 new garages have been built with 3 garage additions, while 31 dwellings have been erected. Permits have also been issued for 24 additions or improvements to houses and 8 for business or factory enlargements.

For the first time in several years receipts at the Galion post office have dropped to a figure lower than the previous year. Records show that receipts for the quarter ending June 30 were fifteen percent lower than last year. The total was $15,014.42, as compared to last year's figure of $17,598.32.

The drop reflects a decline in the mailing of advertising matter by manufacturers and retail merchants incident to the war conditions, post office officials said.

WEIGH COUNTY FAIR PROBLEM

Ashland Fair Board Studies Discontinuance of Annual Affair.

ASHLAND — Ashland county fair board members will determine at a meeting July 13 whether an Ashland county fair will be held this year.

Three members of the Ashland county fair board, Leonard Kestner, G. L. McClaran, and James Atterholt, and County Commissioner H. F. Wallett attended a meeting at Wellington Wednesday night of county fair boards of Sandusky, Huron, Lorain, Medina, Cuyahoga, Wayne, and Ashland counties.

They discussed continuation of fairs this year and the general recommendation of the meeting was that the county fairs be discontinued.

Norwalk, Berea and Medina fair boards have voted not to hold their fairs.

The Ashland county fair was scheduled for four days beginning Sept. 23.

Midget auto races at the county fairgrounds Saturday were attended by the smallest number of any public event at the fairgrounds. James Atterholt, fair board secretary, says that fair officials regard this as evidence of the public's growing concern for the conservation of rubber.

COUPLE WEDS JULY 2 AT CHANUTE FIELD

Mary Carr and Lieut. William Price Exchange Vows In Catholic Chapel During Eight O'clock Mass.

WEDDING vows were exchanged July 2 between Miss Mary Lauretta Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John V. Carr, 640 Bowman street, and Lieut. William J. Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Price, 204 Maple street, Effingham, Ill. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock mass in the Catholic chapel at Chanute field, Ill.

Rev Father English, chaplain, officiated and Lieut. Thompson served at the mass. The small altar was decorated with vases of white carnations, daisies and baby breath. For the occasion the bride chose a street length dress of a maize and seatone combination, with fitted waist and full skirt. Her large hat edged with a ruffle was also in two shades, having yellow veiling. She carried a bouquet of orchids and baby breath.

Miss Molly Carr, sister of the bride was her attendant. Her dress was in an aqua shade with matching hat and veiling. Flowers were an arm bouquet of yellow roses and baby breath. Capt. Peter DeFurie, formerly of Mitchell field, N. Y., acted as best man. The groom and best man were in full dress military uniforms.

Both Mrs. Carr and Mrs Price wore navy blue and white ensembles with navy blue and white accessories, and gardenia corsages. A wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and immediate families at the hotel Tildon hall in Champaign, Ill. White appointments were used centered with a wedding cake on which was a miniature bride and groom.

The bride is a graduate of St. Peter's high school and attended Mansfield Commercial institute and has been employed in the laboratory of the Tappan company. Lieut. Price graduated from Effingham high school and the University of Illinois. He is at present stationed at Chanute field, studying aeronautical engineering.

For her wedding trip, Mrs. Price wore a powder blue silk jersey with matching turban and black accessories. She had an orchid corsage. The couple will reside in an apartment on Campbell in Rantoul, Ill.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"FROM JACK?" I echoed vacantly, feeling as if my head, suddenly severed from my body, was whirling around through space. For when I had discovered that the man masquerading as a servant of old Professor Diswell was Jack, he had solemnly stressed the necessity of keeping Katharine in ignorance of his return to America, and I had promised that I would breathe no hint to her that I had seen him.

My father had told me also that the reason Jack gave when he insisted upon going away again was his fear that he would bring upon my father in the hideaway some dire consequences.

From my father's repeated warning that I must breathe no word about Jack to Katharine the Chief then telling me that he had sent Jack under guard in the armored car to the upper regions of Connecticut where he meant to disappear again, I knew Jack must have stressed to my father also the necessity for keeping Katharine in ignorance of his return.

Seeks Clue to Mystery.

Yet within twenty-four hours he had sent a message to his wife calling for help from her!

There was only one thing of which I was sure. I must let no hint drop to Katharine that I knew anything about Jack.

"What was the message," I asked, "a telephone call or—"

"It was a letter," she answered "brought to me by a telegraph messenger boy this afternoon about an hour before the last train left Bridgehampton for New York. As soon as I read it I got hold of Mrs. Ticer and had her come over to help Mother Graham until tomorrow, threw some things into my suitcase and caught the train

"Believe me, Madge," she pleaded brokenly, "I would never have left the children before Lillian and Miss Whitlock reached there, if it had not been so urgent a message."

"Tell me about it," I said. "But first, are you sure the letter was from Jack?"

She turned wide puzzled eyes upon me.

"Why, of course it was," she said. "It was in his handwriting And—who else could have written it?"

"I don't know," I said slowly "But if it was really in his handwriting, why of course that settles it."

It didn't, in my mind, but I saw Katharine was in no mood to listen to anyone. She wanted me to listen to her, and I prepared to be a sympathetic audience.

"Forgive me for interrupting," I pleaded, "and tell me everything. Have you the letter with you?"

"It's somewhere in my purse," she said, looking around with the same vague gaze with which she had looked for her suitcase. "But I don't need it. I know every word of it by heart."

Repeats the Letter.

Her mouth was working with emotion, but there was no hint of tears in her eyes.

"It began the way Jack always has begun his letters to me, even when in his worst moods," she said "He always said 'My own sweetheart. Katharine'."

Her voice broke, then went on. "I'm going to recite the letter just as I read it," she said.

"'I'm sending this letter to you from New York,' it began, 'by a trusted friend who will see that a telegraph company boy gets it to you. This is because I do not dare to let but one or two people in the world this friend and you, know where I am.

"'I am in great danger, yet I am on the brink of a discovery which may mean salvation or destruction for the country, if only I can win through But I can do nothing without your help. I do not deserve to have you help me. I have treated you vilely. But I know your divine compassion, Katharine, and I am counting on it."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

OPENING 2-NO TRUMP

Among players of the top group, an opening bid of 2-No Trumps is used those hands of evenly distributed strength which are powerful enough to make game opposite a partner who could not quite keep an opening suit bid of one open, yet could not make game opposite an utterly blank hand. With them, every suit must be positively stopped at least once. In fact, they seldom make the bid unless any singly-stopped suit is at least four cards in length and the others stopped twice.

1. ♠ K Q 10 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ A 9 6 4 ♣ A K J
2. ♠ A K ♥ K J 10 ♦ A Q 6 4 ♣ K Q 9 3
3. ♠ 8 7 5 4 3 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 9 5 ♣ 8 6 4 2
4. ♠ 8 7 5 4 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ 8 6 4 2
5. ♠ 8 7 5 4 2 ♥ 6 ♦ K 5 3 ♣ 8 6 4 2
6. ♠ 8 7 5 4 ♥ 6 ♦ K 5 3 2 ♣ 8 6 4 2
7. ♠ J 9 8 4 ♥ 6 ♦ K 10 8 2 ♣ 10 8 7 3
8. ♠ J 9 8 4 2 ♥ A 5 3 ♦ K J 10 ♣ 10 6

Hands 1 and 2 above are sound examples of the kinds which leading players open with 2-No Trumps. The others are examples of various types of responses.

Numbers 3, 5 and 7 call for bids, 4 and 6 for passes. Here is a simple rule to measure them: With no honor strength, you require at least a six-card suit, and should rebid it, whether major or minor, if your partner then calls 3-No Trumps, with about a half a trick in honor cards, like a K, Q-J or a Q and a J and a 10, you need a five-card suit, whether major or minor, and rebid it only if it is a six-card major if your partner then calls 3-No Trumps, without at least a five-card suit, you pass unless you have a bit more than a half a trick in honors, such as No. 7. With the equivalent of a couple of tricks in high cards, or more, you invite a slam, as with No. 8.

So your first response, with those hands would be: 3, 3-Spades; 4, Pass; 5, 3-Spades; 6, Pass; 7, 3-No Trumps; 8, 5-Spades, but if the suit were of only four cards, 4-No Trumps to invite slam. Except for slam purposes, higher suit responses than three are not made; when four or more, the suit is considered an obligatory trump.

Comes today a letter from the public relations department of Napier Field, Dothan, Alabama, which has a lot of nice things to say about Paul Cameron, former coach at Mansfield's Johnny Appleseed junior high school, who has been a physical instructor at the Alabama air field since mid-winter.

Cameron, says the letter from Private Philip Callaghan, has been teaching the cadets and members of the military police at the field the gentle art of jiu jitsu, so they'll be able to fight the Japs with their own weapons.

The letter then goes on to tell something about Cameron's background, some of which may be new even to his friends in Mansfield.

It tells how he became a football and wrestling star at Cresco, Iowa high school, captaining the wrestling team in 1933, and being picked on the All-Iowa interscholastic team.

From there he went to the University of Michigan where he gained national recognition as a member of the Wolverine grappling team in 1936-37-38. In his senior year he was picked on the national inter-collegiate all-star team.

Private Callaghan sends two snapshots of Cameron in action, showing the fliers some jiu jitsu tricks, but the pictures aren't clear enough for newspaper reproduction. Sorry.

Those Mansfield Travelers are beginning to look like a pretty fair ball club. Yesterday at Willard they won their second game in three starts, and it will be remembered their only loss was to the Galion Jaycees when the game was called "because of darkness" after Galion had broken a tie in the eighth inning.

The Travelers appear Friday night in their first game at the Fairground, meeting the strong Lorain Anchor club, which dropped a close game at the Reformatory recently.

Manager Red Hamman of the Travelers writes: "I will put the strongest team I can on the field, and also will have the best possible umpires, who will be paid to handle the game.

"We are trying to schedule a twilight game at the Fairground every Friday evening, and most of the Sundays. We will bring in good established ball clubs, and operate in a businesslike manner, if we can make enough money to bring in good ball clubs. We can get the ball clubs if we can get the gate receipts."

* * *

So Hamman puts it up to Mansfield fans themselves. The brand of ball they'll see the rest of the summer depends on how they turn out to the games.

Whirly Continues Drive On Record

NEW YORK —(U.P.)— Whirlaway attempts to climb another notch toward the all-time money winning mark of $437,730 established by Seabiscuit when he goes in the $50,000 Massachusetts handicap at Suffolk Downs in Boston on July 15.

Trainer Ben Jones has drawn up a schedule for the Calumet colt that includes the Massachusetts, the $25,000 Arlington handicap in Chicago and several stakes at Saratoga. A victory in Boston alone would enable Whirlaway to pass the Biscuit's record.

Whirlaway's campaign was interrupted Saturday when he was beaten by 2½ lengths by Tola Rose in the $30,000 Butler handicap at Empire City carrying 132 pounds to 112. Tola Rose set a new track record for a mile and 3-16. Whirly was knocked off stride at the start.

CANTON TAKES THIRD IN MID-ATLANTIC

CANTON —(AP)— Canton eased into third place in the Mid-Atlantic league standing in the wake of 6-0 and 2-1 victories over Dayton yesterday.

* * *

The double killing gave Canton 28 wins against 29 losses and a few percentage points more than Springfield, with 29 victories and 31 defeats.

Erie bested Charleston 7-4 but the visiting Senators continued to pace the league. At Zanesville, Springfield gained a 7-4 triumph over last place Cubs.

Flag Race Waits for Star Game

Ted Williams Takes American Stick Lead.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

MAJOR league baseball teams put aside their pennant struggles today after two straight rounds of doubleheaders and sent their stars to the inter-league classic at New York.

The three-day lull caused by this evening's all-star tilt and the Cleveland clash between the winner and a service nine tomorrow night finds all teams in both leagues maintaining the positions they held before the strenuous week-end.

The New York Yankees retain their four-game lead in the American league and the Brooklyn Dodgers hold an edge of eight and a half games over St. Louis in the National league.

Ted Williams, Boston's American league batting champion of 1941, went ahead of the circuit's hitters over the week-end to lead. Williams is batting .348. Pete Reiser of the Dodgers, who won the National league crown last year, is slugging .361.

Thus, as the teams pause before plunging into the last half of the campaign, the pennant winners and the leading batters of 1941 are all on top once more.

Roger Wolff pitched the Athletics to a 5-4 decision over the Yankees in yesterday's first game but the Champs took the second, 4-2, to give Lefty Gomez his third mound triumph of the year.

A double by Johnny Sullivan and a single by George Case in the ninth inning gave the Washington Senators a 4-3 win over the Boston Red Sox in their opener. Joe Dobson gave the Nats five hits in the nightcap and the Red Sox won 5-0.

The Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader. The Tribe won 5-1, behind Mel Harder's three-hit pitching after the Tigers had taken the first game, 10-1.

The Chicago White Sox swamped the St. Louis Browns, 14-2, as Ted Lyons pitched his 252nd major league victory. The Browns squared it, 13-2, with Steve Sundra pitching six-hit ball and contributing a home run, triple and double.

Eddie Miller doubled in the run that gave the Boston Braves a 6-5 verdict over the Dodgers. Then Larry French, who hasn't lost this season, pitched Brooklyn to a 2-1 triumph in the second game for his ninth win.

At Pittsburgh, a line drive struck Pitcher Paul Derringer of the Cincinnati Reds on the knee after he had blanked the Pirates for five frames in the first game, injuring him so badly he was withdrawn from the all-star game roster. Pittsburgh went on to win the game, 4-3, but Ray Starr pitched the Reds to a 5-2 decision in the afterpiece for his 12th decision.

The St. Louis Cardinals whipped the Chicago Cubs, 5-3 and 11-6, and the Philadelphia Phils surprised the New York Giants, 3-2 and 5-3, for their first doubleheader victory of the year.

Captures State Rifle Title at Mt. Gilead.

By FRITZ HOWELL

MT. GILEAD —(AP)— A Cleveland hydraulic engineer, engaged in making shock absorbers for Uncle Sam's tanks and jeeps, and a Columbus miss who hopes soon to be in the WAAC, hold Ohio's small-bore rifle championships today.

Eugene Beecher, 56-year-old Cleveland Heights expert, who has been shooting only four years (he tried it right-handed the first two and then became a southpaw) won the man's crown at the 12th annual state meet yesterday with an aggregate of 1591 of 1600 for four matches.

Miss Helen Jenkins, 21-year-old Ohio State university co-ed, scored 1576 over the same route to lead the feminine contingent.

In addition to the over-all honors, Beecher also won the metallic sight aggregate with 795 of 800, the metallic sight event over the Dewar course (20 shots at both 50 and 100 yards) with 397 of 400, and the 50-meter metallic sight contest with 398 of 400.

Beecher, a former Texan, took the state title from one of his employes, Bill Patriquin, who is in the research department at the Cleveland plant.

Other winners included:

Junior championship: Lino Della Bianca, Akron, 1173 of 1200; second, Forrest Teal, Akron, 1172.

State team championship: Canton McKinley Rifle club, 3968 of 4000; second, Forest City (Cleveland) Rifle club 3966 of 4000.

100-yard any sights: Perry Grosskiaus, Canton, 400; second, M. Rader, Lorain, 399.

Ohio-Michigan 10-man team: Ohio 8910, Michigan 8885.

The state meet attracted 169 entrants from Ohio, Michigan, New York and Oklahoma.

ANGOTT FAVORED

PHILADELPHIA — (INS) — Lightweight champion Sammy Angott and Bob Montgomery, leading negro challenger, tapered off training chores today in preparation for their 12-round third clash at Shibe park tomorrow night. Latest odds pushed Angott, chunky Washington, Pa., windmill, into the favorite's seat at 11 to 10.

These Hurlers Laugh at Old 13 Jinx

MORTON COOPER — CLAUDE PASSEAU — KIRBY HIGBE

The No. 13 superstition doesn't mean a thing to three of the top pitchers in the National league, all of whom sport the alleged jinx. Morton Cooper of the Cardinals is the leading major league twirler to date; Claude Passeau, Cub standby, leads in number of victories, and Kirby Higbe does all right for Brooklyn.

National League Rated As Favorite On Mound Strength

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK—(AP)—For perhaps the first time since baseball's annual all-star classic was inaugurated 10 years ago, the National league's standard bearers will be the logical favorites when they clash with the American leaguers at 6:30 (EWT) this evening in the Polo grounds.

Trailing three victories to six in the previous games, the National leaguers are seriously determined to win this one on superior pitching and to whittle down the advantage the junior circuit has built up by its vastly greater slugging ability. Loss of three of their principal stars of last year's triumph at Detroit—Bobby Feller, Cecil Travis and Bill Dickey—has weakened the American leaguers.

The Nationals not only boast their usual fine set of pitchers, but they will go into today's game fortified by a group of hitters who, by the averages at least, stack up alongside their rivals.

The Nationals also appear to have a superior incentive to win. They have been deadly serious in their preparations, to such an extent that President Ford Frick made a special request that five crack pitchers be given adequate rest. With Manager Joe McCarthy of the American leaguers ill all the past week in Buffalo, the Americans apparently had little opportunity to make any such extensive provisions.

The team that is in front when the last out is made under the lights tonight will hustle for Cleveland to appear against Lieut. Mickey Cochrane's service all-stars in a second benefit game tomorrow night.

A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to assemble for the start of today's game in the lengthening shadows. Somewhere past midway of the contest it will be necessary to snap on the floodlights.

This was an important consideration in Manager Leo Durocher's decision to start Claude Passeau of the Chicago Cubs against the American leaguers, rather than Mort Cooper, the St. Louis Cardinals' fireballer. Leo figures Cooper's speed will make him well nigh invisible to the batters during that eerie period after the lights are burning and the day still is fading.

It also is likely that Durocher will call upon his own wheelhorse, Whitlow Wyatt, for a three-inning chore. Since McCarthy has included only two left-handed batters, Ted Williams and Tommy Henrich, in his tentative American league starting lineup, it is doubtful that either Cliff Melton or Johnny Vandermeer, the National's two southpaws, will see action. Though it is permissible to work a pitcher up to five innings in this all star game, Durocher has promised the other managers in his league that he will limit his hurlers to three frames.

Most observers leaned toward Spurgeon Chandler, Yankees' righthander as the American league's starting pitcher. McCarthy said it would be Chandler or Harold Newhouser or Al Benton, the latter two of Detroit, but in other years it has been noticeable that the Yankee pilot liked to fall back on one of his own men when he was in doubt.

Wearing New Sport Crowns

FRANK TATUM — BETTY JAMESON

TED SCHROEDER — CLAYTON HEAFNER

This foursome is celebrating new championships. Betty Jameson of San Antonio won the Women's Western Open at Chicago. Ted Schroeder of Stanford captured the singles title in the national collegiate tennis tournament at New Orleans. Frank Tatum of Stanford took the individual title in the national collegiate golf tournament at South Bend. Clayton Heafner, of Linville, N. C., won the Girard Open, at Girard, O., with 284, which equaled the world record for a 72-hole medal play tournament over a regulation sized course.

Providents Split Even

Win and Lose By Same Score to Falls Club.

Provident Loan girls won and lost by identical scores of 3-2 at Cuyahoga Falls yesterday, giving them an even break with the Falls in a four-game series in two days.

The state champion Mansfield club won the opener as Fran Knapp kept ten Falls hits so well scattered in seven innings the losers got more than one hit only in the two innings they scored.

Three singles in the first frame sent the Falls away to a 1-0 lead, but the Providents tied it up in the fifth on Tipul's single and Schaefer's double, and went ahead with a two-run splurge in the sixth as Herrick, Jocha and Whiteman singled. Two singles and an error gave the Falls the final run in their half of the sixth.

Alice Iceman chucked a 3-hitter at the Falls in the nightcap, but gave six walks, and a free ticket to first led to the winning run in the last inning with two out. Sailer drew the pass, stole second, and scored on Grobe's single over the third base bag.

WITTENBERG COLLEGE COACHES QUIT JOBS

SPRINGFIELD —(AP)— T. W. (Bill) Stobbs, veteran football, basketball and baseball coach at Wittenberg college since 1928, resigned today. He is in training at Jacksonville, Fla., preparatory to accepting a naval commission.

Freshman Coach Paul E. Norman, a Newark high school mentor before coming to Wittenberg, also resigned to accept an ensign's commission in the coast guard.

Travelers Win Willard Game

Rally In 7th and 8th For Deciding Markers.

Mansfield Travelers rallied in the seventh and eighth innings yesterday at Willard to defeat the Willard V. F. W. ball club 6-4.

Each club scored a run in the fourth, and Mansfield took a 2-1 lead in the sixth, only to see Willard come back with three runs in their half of the same frame.

Two markers by the Travelers tied the score at 4-4 in the seventh, and the Mansfielders came back with the winning pair of markers in the eighth.

Martin held Willard to five hits.

Service Team Gets Tune-Up

Picks National League To Win All-Star Game.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The best baseball talent in the Army and Navy got a final tune-up in a two hour practice session today while waiting for the major leagues to decide on an opponent for them.

Under the managerial eye of Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane of the Navy, a squad of 21 players climbed to razor-edge form for tomorrow night's game with the winner of the National-American All-Star game in New York.

Cochrane's own boys, the men from the Great Lakes Training station, have had the most practice together and form the nucleus of the squad, but the two-hour session today probably will decide the final line-up.

* * *

Lieut. George Ernshaw, former hurling ace of the Philadelphia Athletics, took time out from his coaching to predict the outcome of today's major league All-Star game in New York.

"I think the National league team will play against us, because their pitching looks better," Earnshaw commented.

Bob Feller, former Cleveland fireballer, also picked the Nationals to win today. Said Rapid Robert: "I think the National leaguers are a little better, but of course I hope the American team wins."

After his workout in the lakefront stadium where he showed his speed last year, the 23-year-old Iowa farm boy said he felt in good condition.

"I'm not worried about my control, but my fast ball may not rise as quickly as it used to, and my curves may not break every time I want 'em to. We won't have the hitting when we face the All-Star winners, but the stadium will help us a lot there," he said.

* * *

Feller or Johnny Rigney, late of the Chicago White Sox, probably will open the game. No pitcher will work more than five frames, Earnshaw said.

He's Handy Boy To Have Around

MASON CITY, Iowa — Wide World)—When you're mentioning baseball handy men don't forget Al DiMarco of the Mason City high school Mohawks.

Al is an ace pitcher who averaged nearly two strikeouts an inning during the 12 high school games he worked this year. When he wasn't on the mound he played a sparkling defensive game at shortstop.

He hit in the clean-up spot, averaged .309 and led his team in runs batted in. Among his pitching triumphs were six shutouts.

* * *

DiMarco hurled the Mason City legion team to the state championship last year. Several colleges want this 18-year-old Italian boy, but he is undecided where he will go.

Indians Split With Tigers

Mel Harder Hurls 3-Hit Ball For 5-1 Victory.

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Possessing third place by a two-game margin after dividing the week-end series with Detroit, the Cleveland Indians split up today and took a busmen's holiday.

Manager Lou Boudreau, Kenny Keltner and Pitcher Jim Bagby were in New York to play in the major league all-star game.

Other Redskins dropped down to the lakefront stadium to talk with their old teammate, Bob Feller, who was practicing with fellow members of the Army and Navy all-stars getting ready to play the winners of today's major league all-star game.

At Detroit yesterday the Tribe lost the first game 10 to 1, and won the nightcap, 5 to 1. This brought the holiday week-end series to two victories each and one game tied, and put the Redskins seven games behind New York with Detroit nine behind the champions.

Yesterday's victory was turned in by Mel Harder. He could have had a shutout except for Pinky Higgins' homer in the fourth inning. He allowed two other hits, both singles.

The Tribe gathered eight hits, four of them joining with an error in the opening inning to give the Redskins three runs. Roy Weatherly began the game with a double, Keltner singled and Jeff Heath tripled, then scored on an infield out. Cleveland got two more runs in the eighth on Keltner's double and singles by Heath and Boudreau.

In the first game the Indians' only marker was a home run by Les Fleming in the second inning

FURTHER SCRAP SHORTAGE SEEN LATER IN YEAR

Special Drives For Metal Collection Keeps Steel Industry Going.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market started a new week today with trends generally higher.

Gainers of fractions included Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, Consolidated Edison, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Rubber, U. S. Steel,, Montgomery Ward and Anaconda.

Followers of metal shares noted the warning of the magazine "Steel" that present indications pointed to a further scrap shortage in later months this year.

"Increased collections resulting from special drives," the publication added, "have sufficed to keep steelmaking at a high rate but the larger volume is barely being maintained and in some areas receipts are not sufficient to allow capacity production."

FILES SUIT FOR FALSE ARREST

Unionist Accuses U. S. Gypsum Company In Court Action.

TOLEDO—(U.P.)—Virgil Mason, former recording secretary of the Toledo Industrial Union council of the CIO, has filed suit in federal court against the U. S. Gypsum company of Gypsum, O., for $15,000 damages on a charge of false arrest.

The petition charged that the Gypsum company acted jointly with Ralph R. Reidmaier, sheriff of Ottawa county to have Mason imprisoned on a charge of contempt of court.

The petition claimed that the common pleas court of Ottawa county found these charges unfounded on August 16, 1941.

RULED OUT

War Plants Drop Birth Certificate Requirement for Employes.

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Birth certificates no longer will be required for persons seeking employment in war plants, according to a ruling announced by chairman Paul V. McNutt of the war manpower commission effective today.

The army and navy have developed, with the U. S. employment service, a program which calls for a simple declaration from the worker that he is a citizen. This declaration must be signed by the worker in the presence of an army or navy representative.

'PRIORITY' PUTS MARRIED MEN NEARER ARMY

War Workers, Physically Unfit Seen as Only Deferments In 20-45 Age Group.

nancial dependency a consideration. That aspect, presumably, has been taken care of by the allotment plan. This provides $50 a month for the wife without children, $62 for the wife with one child, and so on. In each case, $22 is taken from the serviceman's check and the balance supplied by the government.

Many Ohio draft boards report their supply of Class 1-A men has been, or very soon will be exhausted. The new law orders boards to reach into the second, third and fourth categories, when necessary, to fill induction calls. Boards have been told they must fill the calls, no matter how far they must dip into the dependency classes.

The situation in Richland county is less severe than in some counties of the state, which have exhausted their 1-A lists entirely. Officials of the three boards in the county expect to be able to meet their large calls for men in July and and August from the remaining 1-A's, from 1-B's, and from the third registration—those in the 20-21 and 35-45 classes.

After August, however, the boards will have to dip into the 3-A class—those previously deferred because they are married or have other dependents. First to be called will be those not living with their wives, and those whose wives are working.

The only provision protecting the family man is the one which provides that all those with a lesser degree of dependency must be taken before he is called.

Men in classes 3-A and 3-B will retain their classifications, according to the new orders, until such time as their local boards have exhausted their supply of men without wives or children with whom they live.

A further factor which will hasten induction of men with limited physical disabilities is the announced intention of the army to lower still further the standards for 1-B men, those with partial physical handicaps.

CHARGED WITH BURNING TIRES

Junkyard Operator Accused of Using Rubber for Fuel.

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Because he allegedly burned four old tires, Emerson R. White, 30, was scheduled to appear before U. S. Commissioner Francis St. J. Fox today

Believed to be the first such action of its kind in the nation's history, White was arrested on the advice of John Bosche, attorney for the federal office of price administration in San Francisco.

White was observed burning the tires by Police Inspector Joseph Andres. He was using the old tires as fuel to melt copper out of old auto starters and generators in a San Francisco junkyard.

CONSCIENCE-STRICKEN

SEATTLE—(U.P.)—Two 25-pound sacks of sugar, believed to have been left by a conscience-stricken hoarder, were found on the doorstep of the Ryther Child home here shortly after rationing went into effect.

THEATERS

World War Episode.

World war characters immortalized on history's pages, among them Marshal Foch and General John J. Pershing, are portrayed on the screen in "Sergeant York," Gary Cooper's starring picture at the Ohio. Jean De Val appears as Marshal Foch and John Girard as General Pershing. The picture depicts the battle of the Argonne and one of the individual feats of the World war, Alvin C. York's capture of a machine gun nest and 132 Germans. Joan Leslie and Margaret Wycherly are in the cast.

Circus Background.

Life in the jungle is simple compared to Tarzan's exploits in a big city in the current Madison attraction, "Tarzan's New York Adventures," starring Johnny Weissmuller. Dressed in civilized garb Tarzan battles a whole circus plus the police force and makes a sensational dive from Brooklyn bridge in order to regain his foster son, abducted by circus promoters. Maureen O'Sullivan and Paul Kelly are in the cast. Milton Berle in "Whispering Ghosts" is the second attraction.

College Comedy.

An alumni reunion at a midwestern university provides the fun in "The Male Animal," the Henry Fonda-Olivia De Havilland comedy at the Ritz. Fonda plays a serious-minded young professor and Miss De Havilland has the role of his wife, who, incidentally has not forgotten an old football hero. Joan Leslie and Eugene Pallette are among the players. "Song of the Islands," a Technical musical romance with Betty Grable and Victor Mature is the co-feature.

Bumstead Comedy.

Another episode in the life of a comic strip family is presented in "Blondie's Blessed Event," showing at the Park. Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake again appear as "Blondie" and "Dagwood" while a few new characters are added, among them, Hans Conried, as a down-and-out playwright, who decides to make his home with the Bumsteads. Oriental and Occidental thrills are combined in "The Shanghai Gesture," the second picture with Victor Mature and Gene Tierney.

U. S. ARMY PROBES PENNANT SALES

Hold 11 In Sale of Banners Bearing 'Made In Japan' Inscription.

PITTSBURGH—(U.P.)— The United States army intelligence today atempted to "get to the bottom" of "an effort to confuse the American public" through the sale of pennants bearing the inscription, "made in Japan" at the army war show appearing here.

Eleven men employes of a concessionaire holding a contract for sale of the pennants at the show during its nationwide tour were held in jail without bail pending completion of the investigation.

The "made in Japan" trademark on the cane pennants was discovered by purchasers of the banners last night at Pitt stadium, where a record-breaking crowd of 60,000 witnessed the show's third nightly appearance.

BEEKEEPER AT 90

CANTERBURY, N. H.—(U.P.)— The oldest man in town, William W. Wheeler, 90, tends 12 hives of bees and cultivates his large gardens as part of a regular workday schedule. He also takes fishing and hunting trips for recreation.

CHAPTER XXIV

Chinatown was fun.

Ronnie knew a place that was authentic as the Orient could be in a western world. Joy Garden. And no garden at all. Up a flight of steps into a cramped room with the pungent smell of food cooking over charcoal and a low murmur of what seemed to be monosyllables strung together without pause or period.

Slant-eye men with parchment faces — pale dark and medium parchment, wielded chop sticks as dexterously as a featured juggler plys his art. No slant-eyed women to keep their lords company. Didn't Chinese women dine out? Apparently not.

Kay ate quantities of strange and savory dishes. She tasted rice wine. Tea, in the thick little cups had a special flavor. A delicious stimulating tang.

"Thanks for the trip," Kay said. She had insisted on walking back to National. "I feel like a stuffed goose, only stuffier. I like China. We'll be landing in a minute. Work seems pretty prosaic after that glimpse into the far away."

"Why not cut and run?" Ronnie urged. "I know some other foreign ports. Just stay aboard and we'll up anchor."

"Can't do it," Kay said. She must steel her will against Ronnie's plea. "The gangplank's down and I have a date with an illustrator from the art department. He's going to make pictures of little bees that have been buzzing around in my bonnet. At least I hope they're bees. They may turn out to be butterflies—even bats."

Ronnie reluctantly said, "good night" and watched Kay enter the building.

When she returned to her hotel shortly before eleven that night she was completely done in. It had been a long difficult day, exhausting mind and body. Strange how work takes so much heavier toll of energy than does play. How often she had danced at college hops, at the Country club until two, three, even four o'clock in the morning . . . danced the night through. Danced until dawn. Without feeling in the least tired. Wishing the party might go on and on.

Gay irresponsibility, that was the answer. When one accepts responsibility for the conduct of living, one automatically becomes a burden bearer. Burdens become wearisome, even to the stoutest heart.

Kay asked herself, "Would I go back to the old nonchalance, the careless acceptance of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness as an inalienable right to which I was born?"

Kay knew she would not go back if she could. Even with the burdens it imposed. Responsibility enriched, endlessly, the design for living. This Kay, weary though she was and uncertain of tomorrow, would not exchange places with that other Kay whose sole purpose was the pursuit of pleasure.

"Long distance has been trying to get you, Miss Kenyon," the clerk at the desk told Kay. "The call came in after seven, so I didn't know where to reach you."

Kay's heart stood still, then raced wildly.

"Long distance! You have . . . the number?"

Her mother. Who except mother would be calling her long distance. Mother would not permit herself the extravagance of such a call unless . . . sickness! An accident! Oh God, don't let anything be wrong with mother. She's all I have. I shouldn't have left her. Never, never, never.

The clerk handed Kay a slip, "Call long distance operator 617."

Kay called. "Somerset has been trying to reach you," the operator said. "Will you take the call please?"

Somerset! Then her first paralyzing fear was justified. Her mother! What if . . . if . . . She dared not think what might lie beyond the "if."

"Yes, yes, I'll take the call," she said, "and please hurry. It's so important. Will it take very long?"

"One minute please." Then faintly. "Six one seven calling Somerset. Somerset, 617 calling."

Kay's hands were so numb with fright now she could scarcely hold the receiver. Hot waves, cold waves, engulfed her. One minuse? One century!

She heard a distant. "Go ahead New York." Then a deep resonance that thrilled her.

"Hello . . . hello Kay. I didn't mean to disturb you at this hour. But now that I have . . ."

"Gary!" That stinging fear again. "What's wrong? Is it—mother?"

"Wrong?" Gary said. "Nothing's wrong, as far as I know. I saw your mother at noon today. Took her to lunch in your old success stand, the Sweet Shop. She was feeling topside when I delivered her at the Kenyon home around 1:30 this afternoon. Why? has something happened?"

The fright in Kay's voice communicated itself to Gary.

"Thank God" Kay could breathe again. "No, Gary, nothing's happened, at least I don't know that it has. I've been working at the office tonight. Just came back to my hotel. I'm sort of tired, and edgy. When I heard there was a long distance call, and from Somerset, I guess I went overboard. Oh, Gary, you angel, for telling me mother is all right."

"I'm a pretty poor excuse for an angel, calling you in the middle of the night and scaring you silly. If I had the sense of a gnat I'd know you're first thought would be of your mother. What does a girl as sweet as you do with a dub as dumb as I?"

"She crosses her fingers and hopes he'll not change his mind . . . about her being sweet."

"Not a chance . . . I mean of the dub changing his mind. In fact he called you up to hear the sound of your voice and to complain about his lonely state now that you've gone city folks. How do you like the Big Town, lady?"

"Well, enough . . . it's a little lonely . . ."

"What, New York? Millions of people, millions of things to do . . . millions of everything."

"Yes, but not for a stranger."

"No, I suppose not. Come to think of it, I could be lonesome there myself nowadays . . . if you were somewhere else."

"Gary . . . you mean you do miss me?"

A pause and then, "What do you think, lovely lady? I'll be hopping off at Grand Central Station in a couple of weeks. Then, if you'll let me, I'll tell you about it. Until then . . . Kay."

"Good night, Gary. Until then."

Leaving her room for the office in the morning was stopped by the telephone. Ronnie. He was imperative.

"You've got to help me out, Red. I collided with a couple of college pals in the Yale club last night. They got the notion they have to show me the new hot spots. They're bringing their dates and they insisted on fixing me up blind. I said nix; I've been off campus for years. I told 'em I'd bring my own and show 'em what a belle really looks like. They think all we grow in Somerset are buttercups and daisies. So you see pal, I've got to make good."

"But Ronnie, I can't possibly." Kay was firm. "I'm working until seven."

"Then I'll pick you up at nine. Come on Kay; be a sister to me."

"You know my rule. In my hotel by midnight."

"Sure. I'll have you there if it breaks my heart—and my neck too. You'll come? Honestly, I need you. And I'll be so proud you won't mind putting up with your prize pest."

The moment she hung up the receiver Kay was sorry she had listened to Ronnie's wheedling.
